Zimmern o. R., August 17, 2017. RAMPF Production Systems, an international developer and manufacturer of production systems with integrated dispensing systems, is now being led by a team of two: Long-standing Managing Director Bernd Faller is supported by Hartmut Storz, who has been responsible for sales and marketing at the RAMPF Group company since 2004.

“Due to the very strong growth in recent years, we have decided to spread the responsibilities of managing RAMPF Production Systems over two sets of strong shoulders. This creates the perfect leadership structure for further national and international growth,” says Michael Rampf, CEO of RAMPF Holding.

Both Bernd Faller and Hartmut Storz have been with the Zimmern o. R.-based RAMPF Group company for more than a decade. During this time, RAMPF Production Systems has augmented its core competence of mixing and dispensing technology by specializing in project-specific automation concepts with integrated parts transport and heat treatment, assembly and joining technologies, as well as logistics and quality assurance solutions.

“This wide-ranging expertise enables us to provide our customers with complete solutions for their production facilities,” says Bernd Faller. “I am looking forward to working with Hartmut Storz in driving forward this expansion to our areas of expertise.”

Bernd Faller (57) has been Managing Director of RAMPF Production Systems since 2003. After training as a toolmaker, he studied mechanical engineering and production technology at the University of Applied Sciences in Esslingen a. N. He is responsible for operational business, purchasing, materials management, commercial activities, and HR.
